Dear Church...

This week, it happened again. I met an older man in the hospital who faithfully attends a sister church here in town. As we talked, he told me about his church with some sadness in his voice—no children, no youth, just a faithful but aging congregation. He assumed this was simply “how church is these days.” That conversation reminded me again what a gift God has given us at Southside. We are blessed with vibrant children's and youth ministries, and with leaders who pour themselves into shaping the next generation. God has entrusted us with a future. The next time you hear the thundering footsteps of a little ones or the commotion echoing out of the youth room, pause and thank God. Thank Him for the privilege of being a church where children feel at home, where young people are learning to love Jesus, and where all the generations are growing together in faith.

In Christ,
Schuyler
